JACKSONVILLE, Fla. Dec 22.— URLEAN MINE try's best known journalists and former owner and publisher of the Louisville Courier-Journal, died at a

His death came peacefully, the reperable editor retaining consciousness almost to the end, and contersing during the last half hour will his wife, son and daughter. colones Watterson came to Jacksonvillo several weeks ago in accordare with his annual custom of spendng the winter in Florida. He isin meted a slight cold on Thesday, and sule seated in his chair yesterady morning soon after breakfast, suifered an acute bronchial attack, and was ordered to bed by his physician

Thus Marse Henry passed to that beautiful shore" where, last Octoberhe wrote his comrades of the Comfederate army, he was sure the bottme blue flag will be flying it the fore and the bands will be playing laxe on parade and the pressy girls will e distributing the Char tanooga Rebel" to groups of ragged reinored angels who have not forgotten the rebel yell.

Heavy Watterson, the emineut wil nor, was born at Washington, D. C., Pebruary 16, 1840. He was privated educated and began journalist work as editorial writer for the Washing ton Star. In 1861 he joined the Confederate Army as a private, and later was aide-de-camp to Generals Forr t and Polk. In 1862 with sund unposed in drew from the army to edit the Rebel at Chattanooga, but in 1864 returned to the army, and had part START RIGHT in General Johnston's campaign, and the seige of Atlanta

After the war he revived the publication of the "Nashville Republican Bather , and in 1867 became the edlar of the Louisville Journal. This paper he united with the Courier, under the name of the Courier Journal, of which he became editor in chief and which he made one of the lead ing southern papers.

Watterson was active in politics as a member of the democratic party; he was delegate at large to every 1892, and was permanent chairman of which congressional action was com-Democratic convention from 1872 o that of 1876. He was a member of pletted today will be started tomor-Congress in 1876-78.

As both a speaker and an editor he was always an advocate of a policy of conciliation between the north and south and friends without number on both sides of the Mason and Dixon line.
